

MONKEY CALLS AID

Summons Police When Thieves Tie and Gag Mistress.

Robbers Have an Hour's Start by the Time Detectives, Attracted by Animal's Pounding on Window, Enter the Apartment.

New York.—Detectives Cassetti and Olsen were strolling in front of 311 East One Hundred and Eleventh street recently, when their attention was attracted by loud cries and chattering from a point overhead. When they glanced aloft they saw a monkey hammering frantically with its paws on a window in a second-floor apartment.

The officers, consumed with curiosity, mounted the stairs, entered the apartment through an unlocked door, and found Mrs. Rose Fiorella, bound and gagged, in a chair, her home looted and Pasquale, a pet monkey of the household, cavorting about the premises in a frenzy.

The woman counted her losses at about two hundred dollars, including jewelry, the value of which she could give no definite idea. Pasquale was easily the hero of the affair.

Mrs. Fiorella was alone in her rooms, and was clearing up the kitchen after her husband, Frank, had left for his evening employment, following his dinner. She heard a commotion in a room adjoining the kitchen, but thought it was caused by Pasquale, who had been tied to a table leg. A moment later she was seized by a strong grip, her arms and legs tied with a rope, and placed in a chair with a gag in her mouth. The rope used to tie the Mrs. Fiorella was taken from Pasquale's collar, thus freeing the monkey.

Pasquale used his freedom to great effect by pounding on the windows and screaming in monkey dialect for assistance. The man who overpowered Mrs. Fiorella had a companion, and both wore masks, but had no weapons. They ransacked the apartment until they found the store of money and jewels.

During the search of the two men for valuables after Mrs. Fiorella had been made helpless Pasquale was raging about the rooms creating an uproar. The burglars apparently paid no heed to his outcries, but after their hurried exit he made his appeal to the two policemen, who heeded his alarm.

Mrs. Fiorella writhed in her bonds for an hour before Pasquale succeeded in summoning the police by his cries.

INDIAN PRINCESS AT BALL

Wore Jewels Worth $7,000,000 While Attending Function Given by Friend in Paris.

Paris.—What is considered the most brilliant ball ever given in this city, was the one arranged by Princess de Broglie in her chateau, in honor of Princess Rupartala of India, whose jewels are estimated as being worth $7,000,000. The affair was known as the Jewel Ball, and the scintillating jewels seen at the gorgeous affair, were the very quintessence of Mother Earth's hoard of Nature's priceless, jealously guarded treasures wrested from her possession by the ingenuity of man. It is said that the estimated value of the jewels displayed by the fortunate guests in attendance at the Jewel Ball, reached the $100,000,000 mark. It was the greatest exhibit of jewels seen anywhere at one assemblage.

QUAKE PERIL IN SKYSCRAPERS

Speaker at Building Owners' Meet Fears "Horriying Disaster" at Some Future Time.

Duluth, Minn.—Warning against farther building of skyscrapers was sounded by Franklin N. Wentworth of Boston at the session of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers here. The members applauded his utterances vigorously.

Mr. Wentworth, who is secretary of the National Fire Protection association, asserted that excessively high buildings are becoming a menace to the larger cities of the country. "It is said that the up and down traffic on the elevators of New York city is almost as great as the horizontal traffic," he said. "New York has been very fortunate. No disaster more horriying could be imaginable than that which would occur if the city should have an earthquake. Just enough of a shock to break water mains and gas mains and to snap electric leads—the loss of life would be appalling."

WIFE'S WAGES HELD ILLEGAL

Housework "a Duty Owed to Husband," Master in a New Jersey Court Decides.

Jersey City, N. J.—An agreement between husband and wife to the effect that the latter receive a weekly wage for performing household duties was held by an advisory master in the chancery court in this city to be illegal. Work performed in the home by the wife, the opinion declared, was rendered in discharge of a duty she owes the husband and could not construed as her sole separate account. The opinion was handed down in a case having for its basis a mortgage claim for $5,592 by Mrs. Herman M. Wegdt, against property owned by her husband.

JUDGE IN CLASH WITH NAVY

Paroles Convicted Thief for Enlistment and He is Rejected by Recruiting Officer.

Portland, Ore.—Circuit Judge J. P. Kavanaugh recently paroled Chester Clark, convicted of larceny, to enlistment in the navy in lieu of a prison. Lieut. R. E. Smith of the Portland recruiting office rejected Clark and rebuked Judge Kavanaugh in a letter, in which he pointed out the court's action was derogatory to the men and the service, adding the navy "does not serve the country as a penal institution." Judge Kavanaugh replied in a caustic note, scoring the "youthful enthusiasm" of the officer. The correspondence will be sent to the navy department at Washington.
